OCIP and Project Specific Insurance Mike Less

Whether your client is a subcontractor, general contractor or owner, large projects increasingly involve “wrap” or project dedicated insurance. Learn more about these insurance programs from a veteran Tennessee practitioner.

Mike Less is a partner with the Memphis firm of Less, Getz & Lipman PLC. He is the immediate past President of the Tennessee Association of Construction Counsel, is a member of the American College of Construction Lawyers and practices in a wide variety of transaction and dispute related matters.

Practice Checklists for the Tennessee Construction Litigator David Garst

Regardless of whether your case involves a construction defect, payment dispute, or professional negligence claim, the construction litigator must constantly assess the client’s position in terms of contractual, common law and statutory requirements. An experienced litigator provides checklists for you to avoid the traps.

David Garst is a partner with the law firm of Lewis, King, Kreig & Waldrop, P.C. and graduated from the University of Memphis before beginning his practice in 1986. Mr. Garst focuses his practice on Construction Law, Design Professional Liability, Government Contracts and Commercial Litigation.

Insurance Coverage of Construction Disputes in Tennessee William H. Tate

It is given that understanding both Commercial General Liability Insurance and Builder’s Risk Insurance is critical to advancing your client’s interests in a wide variety of construction related claims. Learn more about these policies as well as a very recent decision by the Tennessee Supreme Court on the subject of commercial general liability insurance and claims of faulty workmanship.

William H. Tate is a partner with Howard Tate Sowell Wilson & Boyle, PLLC in Nashville where his practice focuses on bankruptcy, commercial litigation, construction litigation, insurance coverage of construction disputes and surety law. He is a Fellow and Trustee of the Nashville Bar Foundation and is a Rule 31 Mediator.
